Riding North One Summer by Bettina Selby

Bettina Selby

popular for her marathon bicycle rides alongside the Himalayas, to Jerusalem and down the Nile, Bettina Selby decided, in the summertime of 1988, to discover England. sporting together with her a tent, a slumbering bag and as low as she wanted Riding North One Summer for the outside life, she left London. Her outward trip took her during Riding North One Summer the Cotswolds, the Welsh Borders, Staffordshire and the height District: however the goal of her trip was once to discover the North - the rustic of St Cuthbert and Wordsworth, Beatrix Potter and the Venerable Bede - and it was once within the Lake District, alongside Hadrian's Wall, in Lindisfarne and in Durham that she came across the unchanging England of her memories; the England, too, of Sellafield and Teesside and 1000 exhaust fumes shimmering within the mountain air.
